Dear USC community,

Following the tragic incident recently announced by USC, as fellow students, we want to express our deepest condolences for all those affected. We aim to support every member of the USC community and are deeply saddened by the loss of one of our peers. We encourage a thoughtful and caring atmosphere at USC, particularly around those impacted, that focuses on the wellbeing of all students.

As an immediate way to give a discussion space to those affected, there will be a community event tonight in the TCC Ballroom from 7-9pm -- all are invited to attend.

We are also working with various campus partners to ensure wellbeing services such as professional counseling are abundantly available to all students in need, particularly those directly impacted. Here are a few primary resources available to you should you need anything:

- Student Health Counseling Services: (213) 740-WELL (9355) – 24/7 on-call studenthealth.usc.edu/counseling
- Campus Support and Intervention: (213) 740-0411
campussupport.usc.edu
- USC Department of Public Safety: UPC: (213) 740-6000, HSC: (323) 442-120 – 24/7 on-call
